DEDICATION

To him: For those long days of landscaping in the hot sun - for those icy mornings when, shovel in hand, he's the first to arrive to dig us out - for that quick wave and ever-ready smile - for the spirit which is Salem...

To her: For those many hours in the Fitness Center, encouraging us to do just one more stretch - for twenty years of service, all for our health - for inspiring Dansalems - for pushing us to reach farther - for the spirit which is Salem...

To them: For their love for our College - for their frequent presence in our midst - for their obvious joy in being together - for their sharing themselves with us....

For all they do, this Sights and Insights is lovingly dedicated to Sandy and Nan Tilley. The Class of 1991 shares with Salem our gratitude and respect for the Tilleys, who helped us along our way.

Moravian Archives, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

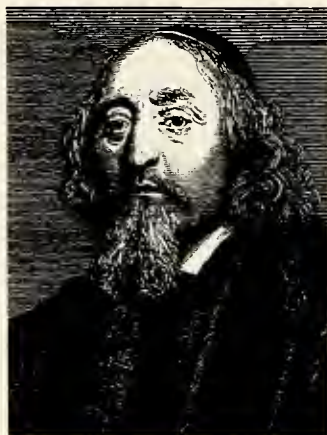

In 1772 the Moravians founded the Salem School for Little Girls to allow them, as John Amos Comenius said, less time for meddling.

By 1802, South Dorm was built to accommodate the first boarding students. Despite the difficulties of managing the growing school, the Moravians kept to the ideal that, indeed, females deserved the same education as males.

Taught by the Single Sisters, beginning with Elizabeth Oesterlein, the little girls were taught all they could learn, in the spirit of John Amos Comenius' teachings.

Now spanning 57 acres, with 876 students enrolled in 14 different majors, Salem College has indeed come a long way! But what about Comenius' assertion that educated women have

SALEM'S RULES OF CONDUCT

The 1807 Rules of the Boarding School at Salem included:

- "Cleanliness in your persons, your dress, books, rooms in the house and in all things is seriously recommended.... A neat and orderly dress, covering every part not to be exposed, will also be conducive to health."
- "The monthly allowance of pocketmoney from your parents for your own small expense is to be under the control of the Inspector and your Tutoreses, and you have to make use of it with prudence and economy."
- "Modesty, courtesy, civility, a mild temper and sweet disposition being indispensable requisite in your sex, you will be attentive to the instructions given you in this respect...."

The "Social Regulations" in the 1957 Handbook included:

- "Written permission for riding in automobiles, planes, or on horseback must be on file in the office of the Dean of Students."
- "Special permission for walking after dark must be obtained from the Dean of Students, except for walking within the limits of Academy Street, South Main Street, and Blum Street."
- "Students are expected to comply with their parents' wishes in regard to smoking.... Salem College is distinctly opposed to drinking... [and therefore] prohibits the use of alcoholic beverages when the student is within the metropolitan area of Winston-Salem...."

The "Social Expectations" in 1990's Handbook include:

- [Self-Determined Hours] is a privilege that permits a student to remain off-campus after the closing hour of the residence halls. A student may use her own discretion as to the actual hour of her return."
- "Alcoholic beverages may be served to students of sufficient age.... Misuse of alcohol will not be tolerated."
- "Sunbathing is allowed ONLY on Babcock Beach, the Gramley sunporch and the area outside the pool...."
- "Walk on the sidewalks, not the grass."

In 1914, student life at Salem consisted mainly of sewing, cooking, and practicing for music class.

Although, undoubtedly, such arts are still appreciated among many current students, life at Salem has changed dramatically since the original Single Sisters were moved into their residence in 1786!

Today's residents enjoy the benefit of living away from our parents and the co-educational scene, growing stronger and more independent with each semester...yet we still find the opportunities to get around and off campus to make the most of our time as

CONVOCATION

The 219th Session

Opening Convocation was not just the beginning of our 219th session, but was a beginning for many newcomers. We recognized new faces and honored old faces with academic awards.

Returning students tucked away their summer memories to share once again the warm feelings of Opening Convocation. Spirits were soaring with anticipations for a bright new year. The seniors felt especially excited as they donned their caps and gowns.

This year's Fall Fest with friends and Fossils finished fabulously for all! Students, as well as faculty, were somewhat leary of this year's Fall Fest. It was decided that this special day would be a surprise-sprung at any moment!! The suspense and anticipation grew with each new day. Finally, on Thursday, October 4th, Fall Fest 1990 arrived!

It was a "Day of Disney" for Salem College. With the hard work of Amy Brubaker, Camille Flippin, Jennifer King, Angie Shotts, Allison Burkette, and Nina Byrne, the day's events were a hit!

Fun and games, song and dance - all made this new Fall Fest one that will be remembered forever.

A DAY OF DISNEY

How...bout them Indians? Mary, Elizabeth, Susan, Jan, and Kimberly.

Every Cinderella needs a fairy godmother... Sarah sports her magic wand.

Hey Steffan, your nose is growing. Did you violate the Salem College Honor Code? Allison and Charla escort Pinocchio!

Hey Betsy, are you really Snow White?

THE FACES OF FALL FEST

Nancy in Never-Never Land!

Fabulous Freshman Fun at Fall Fest!

You are never given a wish without always being given the power to make it come true!

May we always reminisce about our Prince Charming, dream of our Never-Never Land, be as real as Pinocchio, and as happy ever after as Snow White!

Good times with Snow White, Sleazy, and Hungry! Betsy, T.L., and Mary Alston.

It's the 3 Musketeers! No, it's Jean, Juliet, and Michelle all dressed up for the Fall Fest Parade!

Fall Fest is a great time to bring your classes closer together. It is a chance to do things with people from different majors and different dorms. I really enjoyed it this year!

Angie Shotts - Junior

It's a tough job, but somebody has gotta do it. Jennifer King - under control at Fall Fest!

The few, the proud...the Fossils!

FRESH FACES

The beginning of the new year brought us sixty-seven new and eager faces. Though they were few in number, the Freshmen made up for it in spirit. Since setting foot on Salem, they have made quite an impact. Not only did they quickly learn about studies here, they also learned about all the fun we have!

Roommates and best friends: Alice and Nicole, the newest "Gramley Girls," pose by a shady tree.

Their first introduction to Salem's social life came with the Freshman Mixer. Dillon Fence provided the music while we provided the looks... Who knows whether the guys came for the music or the fresh faces? It doesn't really matter: everyone had fun.

Monkey see, monkey do -
Cherie shows us how to smoke a cigarette with acrobatic agility.

Where the men are... Shelly and Juliet never come up short where men are concerned.

"The Freshman Mixer was a great break from the week's rigorous orientation activities."
Gwen Brennan

Who is this guy - Pee Wee Herman?
Diane and a friend hanging out in Strong.

Lambada!! Amy and Sloan dance the night away at the mixer!

Rock-n-roll! Jill prepares for a night of singin' and kickin' up her heels!

"DON'T EAT
OF THE
FRUIT!"

CAPTAIN COOK &

"Don't Eat of the Forbidden Fruit," the theme for the year's first CAC dance weekend, certainly was appropriate: it marked the first ever weekend of overnight male visitation. It began with dorm parties on Friday. On Saturday we journeyed to the O-Pit for music by Big Red Engine. Captain Cook and the Coconuts jammed in the Refectory that evening with tunes by Jimmy Buffet and others. Sunday on the patio saw students and their dates enjoying guitar music in the sun.

Hangin' out after boogying down... Laura and beau enjoy a late evening on the first overnight visitation weekend.

Pre-partying in dorms is a given... Robin and Margaret and their fellas are doing what they do best.

Pilot Knob.... Dearna shows off this favorite spot to her date.

THE COCONUTS

Menage a quatre??? Relaxing in Sisters, Cass, Mary Elizabeth, Katy and their tall, dark, and handsome friend prove that four can be company!

"Here's to Salem women!" Zander and his friends toast our awesome dance week-ends.

Good times

these moments for a second, and safe in our

"Get up and dance - I'll show you how!" Kathryn gives lessons before going to strut her stuff.

"No, I haven't heard that one." Tracy and Betsy are all giggles at the dance.

ONE HALLOWED EVE... SALEM SPIRITS!

On October 31 all the ghosts, goblins, and ghouls of Salem came out of hiding. The campus bustled with students adorned in creative costumes. The most popular event of the night was the special dinner in the Refectory, complete with a costume contest. After preparing a smorgasbord of our favorite junk foods (no broccoli tonight!), Wayne and his staff painstakingly decorated the Refectory in spooky black and orange. Following dinner, students donned in their Halloween finery paraded across the stage to the cheers and delight of the audience. This year's big winner was the Phantom of the Opera, Babe Carter.

Meow Meow Meow. Robin and Margaret are on the prowl!

Mmm... Bubble gum! Dr. Jekyll, oh sorry, Dr. Nohlgren spends time with Mary and Leigh at South's First Tuesday Halloween Party.

Lenny and Squiggy?? No, it's Betsy and Claire, the greasers.

Beetlejuice, Beetlejuice, Beetlejuice! Susan and Kendra give us ghoulish grins.

It's a sticky situation for Cass... she is bubble gum stuck to a shoe.

TRICK OR TREAT?

Gramley Girls... Left center, Hester and Jane create the perfect pumpkin.

'Slowly, gently, night unfurls its splendor...' Babe's Phantom is chilling.

Everyone gets into the Halloween spirit... including Mary Elizabeth, Miller, and Deanna.

Send in the Clowns... Steffan and Amy clownin' around.

PARENTS' WEEKEND

During the first weekend in November daughters and parents were reunited on the Salem campus to visit with each other and participate in a variety of special activities. Events included mini-classes, the President's reception, and the Salem Showcase, which exhibited the talents of many of our students. Parents enjoyed some of the finest Refectory meals during this weekend; many took their daughters out for a night on the town.

Don't leave home without it... These fathers realize that leaving their credit cards with their daughters would not be prudent.

Together... Ann and Catherine, true Salem sisters, smile as they gather close with their family and a friend.

Mother and daughter... Diane and her mom give us a smile.

Circle of three... Hester and her parents, arm in arm, pose on the patio.

Pearly Whites... Jean moves in to embrace her folks.

Chattin' on the patio... Jane's parents catch up on the latest news about her college activities.

We love you, Mom and Dad!

INTERCLUB

Interclub Weekend was a hit this year at Winston-Salem's Sawtooth Center. "Greek Weekend" was full of dancing almost till dawn and dressin' up "to the nines"!

Pretty faces... Mindy, M.A., and Kelly stop for a quick pic before they race back to the dance floor.

'My date is doing what?' Denise and Karen contemplate where their dates are, and exactly what they're doing without them!

Dancin' the night away! Ann and a friend are all smiles on the dance floor.

Christmas at Salem is a time of thanksgiving, dreams, and friendship. Each year the Christmas season unfolds with caroling, candle-making, and gift giving. The women of Salem see Christmas here as a reflection of Christmas at their own homes, filled with merry-making and good cheer.

BACK IN BLACK

WINTER FORMAL

This year's Formal Weekend began Saturday afternoon with Tunji's Reggae in the Hyatt. Then it was to the ballroom to dance with The Game. When the clock struck one the dance had ended but the fun continued. On Sunday Derryberry and Alagia capped off the perfect weekend.

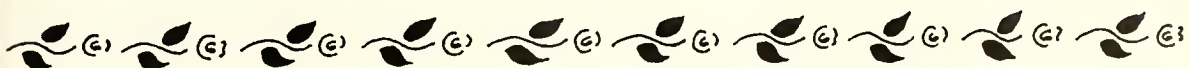

Say "Cheese!" Britt and Julie show their pearly whites for the camera.

Everyone say "Reggae!" Tunji started the weekend off with a bit of culture for everyone in the atrium.

Three's a crowd! Not true here with David, Melanie, and Leo.

Hangin' out... In the midst of all the confusion, Kristy and Sheila are stopped for a picture.

'Continuing ed' student Kathy and her date are having as much fun as the traditional Salem students.

Ooops! Amy has lost her date and she doesn't know where to find him.

"Hey...telephone! Man on the hall! Do we have sit down to-night? Could I borrow... It is still quiet hours! Is she in her room? Is he in her room too? I really need to do laundry. Pop-corn, anyone? Visitation doesn't start till noon! I really should be studying! How much longer till dinner? Is that my phone? Oh, you cleaned your room! No, that's not my garbage in the hall. HAPPY HALF HOUR!! Key check tonight! Another prank call!"

Happy Half Hour! Freshmen on First Floor Clewell quickly realized that it's the best time of the day!

Oh Christmas tree! By decorating ornaments, Carolyn, Mindy, and Mary Beth get into the Christmas spirit.

"Don't get too excited...it's only my parents, not a guy!"

Andrea and Amy² on the loveseat:
Three's a crowd!

What's the matter here? Heather looks a little suspicious.

DORM SWEET DORM

Chilled and thrilled. Erin and Betsy show how they feel about our photographer.

Babcock freshmen... Drewry, Rebecca, and Mary Barclay are all smiles.

Genius? Isn't a cluttered room supposed to be a sign of genius?

Did you remember to sign him in? I just stopped by to visit. Well, since I'm already late for class, I guess I won't go! I'm locked out! She's been in the shower for 45 minutes! Did you go to class today? Let's go somewhere, let's do something!! Don't forget your SDH key! Have you seen my roommate anywhere? Will you check my mail, please? Is anything happening tonight? Don't you have class this morning? I got the phone bill. I have no money whatsoever! Did you get his phone number? Are you going to see him again? GOOD NIGHT!"

What's going on? Gramley girls congregate at the end of the hall.

A stress-less abode? Susie tries to suggest that a neat room with a couple of plants is the key to a stress-free lifestyle.

BEFORE... THE A LA NATURAL LOOK!

A typical day at Salem consisted of hopping out of bed five minutes before class, splashing your face with some cool water, and throwing on those oversized boxers and a Salem sweatshirt.

Salem women honestly didn't have time to worry about their looks during the day because they were usually so busy with classes, studying, and their many extracurricular activities.

So when you saw a Salemite with her hair up in a bandana, no socks with her shoes, and maybe her nightgown under a sweatshirt, you didn't fret because you knew in a few hours, she'd look like a million bucks!

What are roommates for...peticures?? Michelle has to have her toes painted by her roommate Laura before she goes out!

You look marvelous Babe... Every day we find Babe sporting her white bathrobe in the first floor shower of Strong Dorm.

A casual occasion...Tess and Katherine head to the Refectory in their dinner wear.

Dinner at Salem may be casual, but not when boys are here. Katherine and Jess look great in their Laura Ashley dresses.

You've come a long way Babe since 9 o'clock this morning! Babe flashes us her cute little smile on her way out to dinner.

By 8-9 o'clock you could find Salem women tying up loose ends with their studies, and beginning the transformation from ghoulish to gorgeous!

Hair curled, make-up on, fingernails polished, and shirts tucked neatly into skirts, Salem women were ready for a night out!

Vogue... strike a pose Michelle and Laura! But wait a minute, we want to see Michelle's toes.

AFTER... READY FOR THE WORLD!

Breaking Curfew?

Twenty-three years ago Salem students were confined to their dorms at 10:00. By 1975, SDH keys were distributed, ending the era of light cuts and campus closing. Today everyone uses their SDH keys to make their own curfew. Late night hangouts include the O Pit, Baity's, area colleges, parties, and mixers.

Dirty Dancing? Jennifer, do you know that guy you're dancing with?

Evening Attire... Jill, Stacy, and Heather are all decked out for a night on the town.

Three's Company... Laura and Betsy find that three doesn't have to be a crowd, but can be a lot of fun!

The early bird has the most fun... Amy, Michelle, Laura, and Babe start their evening early.

Tight Squeeze... Holly, why don't you just use your SDH key?

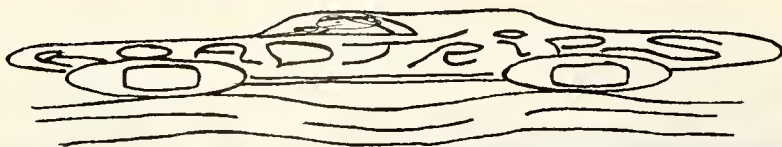

Double Scoops.. Mary Elizabeth and Gena double their fun with some old-fashioned ice cream!!

Put your head on my shoulder... Laura, Palmer, and Laura are ready to have a BLAST!!

Festive Fun... Dearnna and Katie have fun with groovy guys at a reggae festival.

All aboard!!! Salem remembers the 1920s, when its students boarded trains in order to get away from campus.

Roadtripping: whatever the mode of transportation, you can bet that Salem women made it there. We went to parties at area colleges, to see old high school friends, off on lost weekends, and more! Some months we grabbed our suits and towels and headed for the shore; in the colder months we were off to the mountains with our ski gear. Whatever they entailed, roadtrips kept the semester lively and full of interesting stories.

This relatively new tradition seems destined to live on for decades, as long as there's gas to fuel the cars and wanderin' spirits looking for adventure.

Where those men are... Looks as if Sarah and Solly found quite a few at Davidson last fall.

Cocktail anyone??? Sorry, but Heather may not have any leftovers after this wild week at the beach.

lean on me... Rennie does just that on a gorgeous day in the mountains.

What a long, strange trip it's been !

From rags to ridges... Amanda, Anna, and Sharron kick back on a rock at Pilot Mountain.

The final farewell... Above, Salem students of 1937 are taking one last trip on the old stagecoach which used to service Salem in the 1800's.

SALEM GOES TO EUROPE !!

All dressed up and nowhere to go? Not Anna, Claire, Gena, and Mary Elizabeth, seen here playing in Brighton while studying in England.

Relaxing in Spain... Katherine "hangs out" on a wall overlooking Granada, the Spanish city where she lived last spring.

Pigeon alert!! Amanda poses for a picture with the birds of France during the fall of 1989.

On the rocks... Frances and Marie take time out to snap a photo during their stay in France last spring.

Hold on!!! Here, Lee travels by train, as she did for most of her time abroad last spring.

"Going abroad was the greatest experience I have ever had, and if you ever have the chance to do it... don't miss it!!"
Mary Beth Schroeder

For many years Salem has offered its students the opportunity to spend their junior year abroad. Students who have participated in studying abroad were able to experience new cultures and many new adventures. Sa-lemites have travelled to Eng-land, France, Italy, Spain, and even to South America. The places to visit while studying abroad were endless, and the fun was endless as well!!

THEY HAVE COME

Students from all over the U.S. sometimes complained that Salem was too far away from home. But, can you imagine traveling over 3,000 miles from home to attend college?

This year many students at Salem were able to say their home was that far away. These students had to adjust to a foreign school, a foreign language, foreign food, and foreign customs. Despite these obstacles they adapted well to Salem's environment. Although they all admitted to a little homesickness, they were very happy to have a home at Salem.

Shaïda is a Sophomore from Iran. After graduating as a Biology major, she hopes to attend a medical school in the U.S..

Akiko, a junior from Japan, enjoys Sociology and finds Americans very friendly and not as shy as most Japanese.

Many people who know Hanan might not even realize she is from Jerusalem. As a junior, Hanan is a hall advisor, marshal, and member of Tri-Beta.

After studying English for ten years, Chinese student Joanne says she still has a little trouble understanding slang and Southern accents.

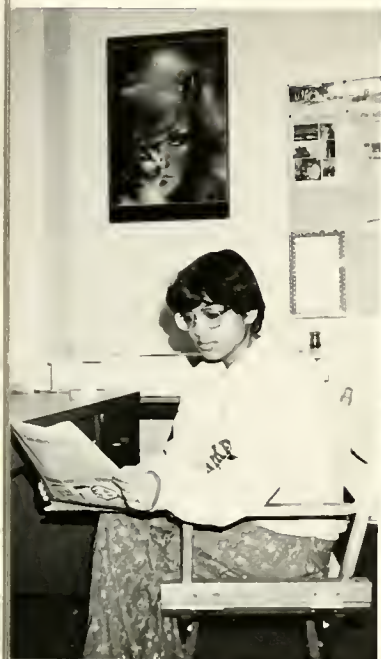

An International Relations major, Francesca is enjoying her second year at Salem. Though she is a French citizen, her family lives in Italy.

A LONG WAY!

Saswati, a Math and Economics major, is a junior from India. She feels that Salem is truly her home.

Mingyu is a Chinese student majoring in Economics. She feels she must study longer here due to language differences.

Noomina was so impressed by Salem's history and tradition, she traveled from Bangladesh to attend. She enjoys studying English Literature.

Dilnavaz, better known as "Dil," was born in Bombay, India. She really likes the communication between faculty and students in and out of the classroom.

Japanese student Kiyoko is a Junior Sociology major. She doesn't like American food very much, but she finds some American men especially handsome.

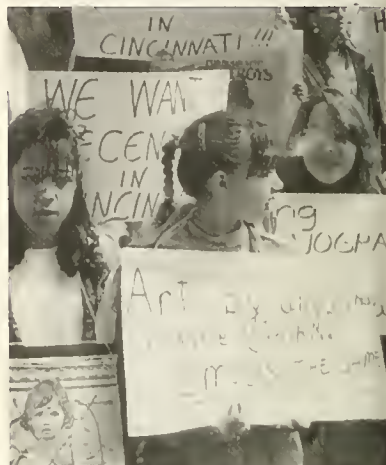

WORLD EVENTS...

the changing times and the times that change us.

Our future: can we get there from here? Pollution, politics, pictureshows, photographs, and the Persian Gulf... it's been a year of personal attitudes and powerful actions on every continent in our changing world. Americans spent the end of 1990 awaiting news of our forces in Saudi Arabia. They watched history take place as Germany was reunified after 45 years. In South Africa Nelson Mandela was released from prison. Changes and events took us by surprise and made us consider our own values. In 1990 we reflected and we looked toward the closing of the century and what awaits us around the bend.

Winston-Salem has always been a town full of cultural events, great entertainment, and excitement all around. This year Winston-Salem once again fulfilled its reputation for being a fast-paced town. With the opening of Hanes Mall, the Dixie Classic Fair, the preview of Broadway shows, elections and anniversaries, the enthusiasm which envelopes Winston-Salem has made our town a fast-growing and prestigious area of achievement, prosperity, and warmth.

CONTINUING EDUCATION STUDENTS

Salem has experienced a change in the make-up of its student body in the last few years. We might have seen one of these "changes" chatting with professors or traditional-aged students, eating in the Refectory, or walking about campus looking... well... a little different from most students.

The new friends are Continuing Education students, and their presence on our campus made a significant contribution to the academic sphere of Salem.

One on one... Dr. Rushing and Tami discuss their philosophies of life.

What should I do? Bonita comes to the CE Office, hoping for an answer.

Miles to go! These two ladies discuss their plans.

Need a helping hand? Nancy, a traditional-aged student, and Yetta, a C.E., work together during class.

May I help you? Tracey Jaekle not only attends classes at Salem, but she also works in the Continuing Ed Office.

What? Not these? Susie works at inventory at Ski & Tennis Station.

Shredding documents... Stephanie works in the Development Office during her free time.

DOES THE BUCK REALLY STOP WITH MOM AND DAD?

Many students found that a little extra cash was an added bonus when it came to paying for movies, parties, and those late-night pizzas. It was time for a job, and working girls could be found everywhere.

Lots of Salem women chose to work on-campus in an office, the library, or the Refectory. We also found students working at various establishments around the Winston-Salem area: the mall, Thruway Shopping Center, and restaurants, just to name a few.

Whatever the locale, jobs were great for providing spending money when the bucks from Mom and Dad stopped getting here!

"Working has helped me learn to budget my time between studying and earning a little extra spending money."

Where is my tip? Carol works at Annabelle's, where she enjoys meeting the public.

WHAT'S HOT AND WHAT'S NOT!

As America - and Salem - headed into the '90's, hot trends included the environment, unification, monogamy, and peace. Celebrities such as the ever-vogue Madonna, shock comic Andrew Dice Clay, Underachiever Bart Simpson, and the Teen-Age Mutant Ninja Turtles captured the attention of our culture; some folks who were burning out in '91 included the "dreded" lip-synchers Milli Vanilli, overspender Donald Trump, and squawker Rosanne Barr.

Nature, our world... With Global Warming putting the heat on Americans to straighten up or fry, the environment and its pollution was a sizzling topic this year.

Unification... became an actuality in Germany, setting a trend for togetherness which inspired all of the Western world.

Separate, unequal, and divided... ceased to be acceptable in the case of South Africa.

'Strike a pose!' Madonna, a hit in the 1980's was still steaming in the 1990s.

The duo Milli Vanilli burned out... when America learned that faking it was their way to stardom.

WHAT'S IN AND WHAT'S OUT!

Our hero? Bart Simpson is in this year, dude... so don't have a cow, man!

Heroes on the Half-Shell... The cartoon craze came to the Big Screen - with a vengeance.

OBSCENITY LAWS
TOTALITARIANISM

In our ever-changing world of fads and faux-pas, money and mayhem, America sets the mood for the 1990s with a strong sense of what's hot and what's not.

CAMPUS CLIQUES

What makes people tick? What makes people "clique"? How lucky we are to live on a campus which allows us to express our true essence! At Salem, women were proud that they were given the opportunity to express their own individuality, whether their own individuality entailed studying ever so hard to make the grade, searching for Mr. Right, partying until sun-up, listening to the Grateful Dead, wearing pink and green, or personifying the true spirit of Salem. Salem women stood this year, free, proud, and unique.

If you think the Orchestra Pit is the place where band members sit...

YOU JUST MIGHT BE A STUDY GEEK!

If you think the Outback is just a place in Australia...

If you think the Library's collection consists only of Brides magazine...

YOU COULD BE MAJORING IN "MRS.!"

If you "study" in the Wake Forest Library every night...

If you go to your 8:00 class in the same clothes you wore out the night before...

YOU ARE PROBABLY
PARTY ANIMAL!

If you frequently call Public Safety at 4 a.m. because you "forgot" your SHD key...

If you have ever cut class to follow the Grateful Dead...

YOU MAY BE A CLASS-A GRANOLA!

If your wardrobe consists of tie-dyes, Birkenstocks, and holey Levis...

If you still wear your penny loafers and Add-a-Beads...

YOU SURE DO SEEM LIKE A PREP!

If you still think pink and green are complimentary colors...

If you know the Alma Mater and the Moravian Blessing by heart...

YOU ARE A TRUE SALEMITE!

If Salem is your home away from home and there's no other place you'd rather be...

Two years of excitement, gifts,
special events, fun, confidences,
special times, lasting friendship, sharing..just a few words that have described Big Sisters and Little Sisters. We have shown our love for our sisters on many occasions, but especially at the Sophomore-Senior Banquet and during Fall Fest sister songs. This year we again expressed our feelings and devotion by singing -

*"Can you believe that it's gone by so fast,
And we've certainly been through a lot.*

*What do you see when you think of the past,
And the good times that we've shared?*

*If you think about Salem
We hope you've had a ball.
And we know we'll remember
The great two years we've shared.
(Sophomores to Seniors)*

"Our Salem days are almost done but you've been here to make them fun

College is a time to grow to make good friends then let them go.

*Secure yourself to Salem
Hold on tight we all are one fasten up your fears and worries
We have just begun.
(Seniors to Sophomores)*

SHARING SOMETHING OF OURSELVES,

*"We'd like to thank our sister class for everything they've done.
For showing us the way around and how to have some fun.
We are the Freshmen of Salem College
our number may be small,
We know our sisters are full of knowledge,
and they won't let us fail.
We'd like to thank our sister class,
We'll always cherish them,
We're very grateful for their love,
We'll always be their friends."
(Freshmen to Juniors)*

*"You, you belong to Salem now,
Ain't gonna leave you alone now
We've said it before & we'll say it again
Others pretend, we need you now
& we'll need you then.
Just stop, 'cause we really love
you
Stop, we'll be thinking of you
Look in our hearts and let Salem keep us together.
We've spent so much time here,
But the days will soon be gone.
The memories we'll make here
Will always linger on.
And then you ask us,
Will we see you again?
And we tell you -
Your big sis is always your friend."
(Juniors to Freshmen)*

WE RETURN WITH SOMETHING TO BE SHARED.

In 1915, a group of late-night snackers decided to get their pictures in the annual...and the club called The Midnight Feasters was born.

There was also the Elizabethan Club, whose members were all named Elizabeth; and the Bandana Gang, who wore babushkas; and the star-gazing Astronomers, who stood on roofs awaiting the unfolding of the secrets of the universe.

Clubs in '91 are more than a free ride to year-book stardom. They are expressions of our interests, goals, and values. They allow us to make a mark on our world.

From theatrics to public service to politics, we take our activities seriously, all in the name of fun.

Evolving Involvements

Salem's extracurricular organizations have evolved through the years to keep pace with the ever-changing world. Many clubs have faded in and out of existence, some disappearing altogether. Veteran Salem clubs which still exist today include Dansalems, Circle K, Order of the Scorpion, and April Arts. Recent additions to our campus include the Environmental Concerns Organization and the Baptist Student Union.

Salem's organizations, both past and present, have always offered students a chance to broaden their horizons and to make a commitment to a group which played an important role in Salem's own history.

Student Government Association:

PROGRESS THRU UNITY

Salem's student government definitely had a busy year!

With Dr. Litzenburg's resignation and the never ending quest for tastier vending snacks, the Exec Board worked to improve life and communication on campus. They addressed concerns about Salem's future and inspired us to show our love for her.

Leg Board stayed busy discussing club constitutions and events, while Executive Finance assessed all the budgets. As Anne Tucker said, "It was like balancing a giant checkbook for the entire school."

Honor Council spent the year quietly ensuring each student a confidential hearing if she committed an infraction. 1990-1991 proved to be a great year!

Hmmm... What are Susan and Debbie talking about?

HOLDING IT ALL TOGETHER

Interdorm and the House Councils had the unenviable job of keeping the peace around campus.

Led by comic wonder Laura Lail, Interdorm faced violations with determination and a little friendliness. Their contests (especially "Most Likely To Be a Scorpion") diminished their intimidation, and the events they sponsored, including "Twist and Shout," gave us reason to celebrate.

The House Councils promoted cohesive dorms and looked after our interests with designated driver programs and self-defense seminars. With informative sessions on topics ranging from stress management to "Sex and Chocolate," this year's House Councils sought to enlighten and entertain us. They worked hard to make this year a more enjoyable one for everyone!

PARENT'S WEEKEND AND ORIENTATION COMMITTEES

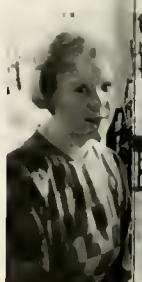

The Parent's Weekend Committee strove to plan and carry out a special, fun-filled weekend again this year.

From November 2-4, parents spent quality time with their daughters, experienced school again in mini classes, attended faculty lectures, and were able to witness some of the awesome talent of Salem students at the Showcase. A good time was had by all!

Authority figures, role models, new friends, and hall mates... members of the Orientation Committee filled all these roles in the eyes of the Class of 1994.

The committee began planning theme ideas last year, and had to arrive at school a week earlier than other students for their training. This training included hours of discussion, role playing, and goal planning, as well as an afternoon toughing it out on a ropes course.

The result of the determination and dedication of the Orientation Committee was seen in a wonderful welcome to the Freshmen, and in continued success within the dorms.

At top, Sable helps Freshmen during orientation. Center and bottom, students enjoy Parents' Weekend "Good things come in small packages," was a very appropriate theme for the wealth of spirit that came packaged in the 67 Freshmen this year.

Arts, Elections, and Exams... Oh, What A Combination

The April Arts Committee strove to promote appreciation of the Fine Arts, exhibiting student talent and making April Arts enjoyable.

The Elections Committee's purpose was to elect students to positions in Salem's SGA-budgeted organizations.

The Exam Committee organized exams, distributors, and faculty advisors to make the process run smoothly.

STUDENTS HELPING STUDENTS....

The Student Concerns Committee's goal was to inform faculty, staff, and trustees about concerns of the students. They served to clarify policies and promoted the well-being of the College by printing articles in The Salemite.

To help protect the earth, students joined the Environmental Concerns Organization. They served as the mind and muscle behind campus recycling.

The Alcohol and other Drug Education Council served to inform Salem about the use and abuse of alcohol and other drugs. This council of students, staff, and trustees sponsored Alcohol Awareness Week, Red Ribbon Week, and attended the Decision '90 Conference in Durham,

PROMOTING AWARENESS AND COHESION IN THE SALEM COMMUNITY

The Off Campus Association's main aim is to increase participation of continuing education and day students in our community.

academic, social, and cultural exchange.

PARTY POLITICS

The Salem Democrats' primary aims this year were working to gain reproductive freedom for all women, and getting students involved in environmental and political issues, especially those directly concerning women's rights. They worked hard promoting Harvey Gantt in the senatorial campaign and sponsored reproductive freedom campaigns like putting ads in local papers.

The Republicans kept busy with incumbent Jesse Helms campaign. They shared information on Helms' stands on issues such as abortion, censorship, and education, and created lots of posters.

Both groups worked on getting students to register to vote for future elections.

AN EDUCATION IN PUBLICATION

Nothing captures Salem's history and spirit better than her publications. Our newspaper, The Salemite, kept us up on news and entertainment and amused us with articles on soap opera addicts and the Scorpions. Incunabula, our literary magazine, held a cover contest, sold Santa Grams, and held poetry readings for faculty and students. Our collection of creative writing and art was exceptional. The Sights and Insights staff took pictures, conducted interviews, wrote copy, and drew layouts to produce a yearbook that captured the best of the year. Overseeing all three publications was Publications Board.

Pierrette Players is the group whose goal is to promote the awareness and support of drama on campus. Their excellent performances of Ladies in Love and Annie were great hits this year.

The "On The Town" Concert Series is run by the Dean of the School of Music, the Friends of the School of Music - and one student as an internship for hands-on experience of an arts organization. Musicians like Alexander Peskanov and Rebecca Penneys dazzled Salem.

ENTERTAINMENT!

CAMPUS MINISTRY GROUPS AID IN RELIGIOUS EXPLORATIONS

Religion is an important aspect of many Salem students' lives. Our religious organizations encouraged students to take time out of their schedules to explore spiritual and vocational directions.

This year the Baptist Student Union, Wesley Foundation, and the Presbyterians offered devotionals, spiritual programs, activities with other campuses, and special programs such as Wesley's "Child of Rage".

Many groups on campus meet to share views and to work together on service projects. The Lutheran Student Group, Catholic Student Fellowship, and Episcopal Student Fellowship exist so students may share their faith, socialize, and perform services. Circle K is the service group whose projects this year included a student-faculty service project, working with local disadvantaged children, and bringing kids from the Children's Home to campus for Halloween trick-or-treating and a party sponsored by Clewell.

THE BREAKFAST CLUB

Rrrring! Rrrring! Rrrring! Margaret Williams groans, turns her alarm off, and rolls out of bed, slowly! Why did I go out last night? she thinks. Across campus in Bitting, Jill Webb pops out of bed and runs into Diane Davis' room to jump on her bed. Diane is not enthusiastic about getting up. She tells Jill to go take a cold shower. About this time, Coach Richards is driving down I-40, thinking over the drills for the morning. Eventually, seven girls are up and in Coach Richards' office ready to run.

Everyday the cross country team runs at 6:30 am. And every morning they can be found in the Refectory sitting down to trays full of water glasses after their grueling practices. This is their time to unwind and enjoy some team camaraderie- before most of the campus has even awakened from its slumber! This team starts each morning off on the right foot.

She is an athlete who knows how to give it her all. Training is important, but Betsy's key to success is knowing how to concentrate and go for it! "I love the thrill of competition!" she says.

Betsy is well-known on campus. She is always telling jokes and having a good time. But along with the fun, she is serious in her dedication to Salem sports. She has also played Field Hockey, spending over 200 hours first semester in practices!! Betsy is a great example of someone who finds her place at Salem.

A SET FOR LIFE

Susan Yu and Michelle Swank have a special relationship on and off the court. They are four-year veterans of Salem volleyball and became friends through their sport. Michelle played volleyball for eight years before her arrival at Salem. Susan had never before played. Their freshman year the team was small and inexperienced. "We had fun!" they said. "We learned not to get too disappointed when we lost, but to play for gum!" (Coach McEwen keeps Super Bubble in the medical kit.) Their love for the sport is due to Coach McEwen and the camaraderie between teammates.

Michelle and Susan revealed that they ridicule each other to relieve tension on the court. They may find great enjoyment in insulting one another on the court, but off the court they share advice.

This year they are closer than ever and the team has more talent than ever before. What is their absolute favorite thing to do together these days? "Party! We are seniors now!!"

How low can you go? Get down on your knees, Nancy!

Setting for the kill!!! they sets at the net.

1, 2, 3 - Jump! Nancy, Carla, and Su show some teamwork.

KATY TO SCORE AND HEATHER TO BLOCK!

What more could a team ask for than two senior captains like Katy Glenn and Heather Inge? Both are true veterans of the brutal sport of field hockey. Katy is a seasoned player of eight years, her last four at Salem. Last year she even played on the Deep South team. Heather has been involved with field hockey for seven years, four of those at Salem.

These two are a pair of opposites on the field. Katy is a fast-moving, offensive center forward while Heather leads the defense as center tackle. Their leadership success as co-captains for the past two years is due to this division. One leads the scoring while the other leads the blocking.

Katy and Heather are friends through their love of sport. They share a bond on the field, but off they rarely get to see each other due to their busy lifestyles. Heather says this was the best season ever for field hockey. The #1 scorer and the #1 blocker are going out in style!

FOR THE LOVE OF HORSES

Can you imagine jumping a hurdle and having your horse fall on his face while you're doing a flip in midair? Would you get right back on the horse? Joan Pierce certainly would. She loves riding more than anything. Captain of Salem's equestrian team for three years, Joan will be missed next year by everyone at the stables.

Joan has been riding since the age of five - 16 years! She spends all her free time at Salem riding. She tries to ride four times a week as a stress relief. When she was younger, she spent from 9AM to 7PM at the stables everyday during the summers and weekends! Joan likes all aspects of riding - cleaning the stables, grooming the horses, practicing, riding for fun, and showing. She would love to continue riding competitively and to try jumps 4 feet and above. Joan is not afraid of anything, and is a great rider. She was reserve champion in her division in the first equestrian meet.

Does Joan have a favorite horse at Salem? No, SHE LOVES THEM ALL!!

Dressed to Impress... Anne and her horse are looking good.

So who is the best looking of this cute pair? Melissa takes a break for a smile.

THE TENNIS TEAM IS...

22 STRONG AND YOUNG

AT HEART

Savoring the day's fruits of victory at the Raleigh tournament, the team convenes for a different sort of round robin.

Tennis greatness blooms in the shadow of Salem's hallowed halls. Sarah and Hope practice footwork.

Not pictured: Jene Fisher, Blanche Toms, Kristen Epting, Betsy Wood, and Emily D'Brien.

Lisa moves in for the kill! Gretchen and Lisa are top freshmen players, but neither seems to care where the ball is in this drill.

VICTORY: LAST SEASON IN A WORD

A Blast from the Past! Did you see these Salem Seniors, Leigh Cubitt, Galen Miller, and Katherine Livermon, around campus this year? No, but you might have seen their ghosts lurking on Salem's tennis courts!

This yearbook highlights Salem's history and tradition and these 1990 graduates made history happen at Salem. UNDEFEATED SENIOR YEAR IN 1990! This says it all! Five years ago, eight freshmen picked up their rackets and committed themselves to four years of practicing to be perfect. They became a great team - A Dream Team! They shared a special relationship on and off the court - friendship and victory combined. Their senior year, led by undefeated #1 Galen and undefeated #1 doubles team Galen and Leigh, the team won their season and the Salem College Tennis Tournament.

At practice this year, one cannot help but feel their spirits on the court. This year the team has an unbelievable 22 strong and young at heart members, and most are freshmen! These 11 freshmen have arrived just in time, and in four years could be repeating history. VICTORY - the tradition continues!

A BALL OF FIRE!

When opposing teams meet Jennifer Callahan on the field, they get a little nervous. They think, "Is it true that red heads have fierce tempers?" Not exactly, but one thing is for sure, get Callahan on a soccer field and WATCH OUT- she is a ball of fire!

Callahan has been scaring away the offense as a defensive sweeper and full back since the age of ten! At that time she was the only girl on her Rec League team. So how did she handle all of those young men at once? Simple- her teammates used to say, "If Jennifer doesn't get the ball, she'll get your shins." A girl between two athletic brothers, Callahan was brought up with sports and loves them. Soccer is the family sport, but Callahan also played basketball and ran track in high school.

A team captain the past two years, Callahan loves soccer here because her soccer friends from the past four years are a special group in her life. And she also loves the competition, the pressure, and the ROUGHING! Yes, this Salem girl is a tomboy at heart!!

Man on man? No! Women on women!! Anne tries to get past Heather in practice.

Are we having fun yet? Near the end of practice everyone looks just a little tired.

WE'RE ADDING SPORTS TO OUR LIFESTYLE!

Wind and sails, water and waves, sun and sea! Jennifer King spends her summers racing Sunfish at Wrightsville Beach. "I sail because I enjoy the sailing crowd of all ages and kinds of people who share a love for the sea and for competition!" Jennifer also teaches sailing to kids as a summer job.

Pushing the pedals, Jane Fisher rides her bike at Salem during her free time. She is one of many Salem women who take to the hills on their bikes. One might see Jane riding at Reynolda Gardens on a gorgeous Saturday afternoon.

Basketball anyone? Under the leadership of Beth Johnson Salem had a basketball team this year. They scrimmaged and trounced the Academy.

Dedicated to fitness! Anna Harris has been dedicated to walking and aerobics since she was a freshman. During orientation she got up early to walk the May Dell steps!

YOU WILL FIND HER FENCING!

Would you like to try to stab someone for fun? Take up fencing! Sonya Cobb took fencing under Mrs. Tilley a year ago. Her love for the sport didn't stop there. Now Sonya travels 45 minutes to Reeves Community College to take classes. She competes and hopes to continue fencing after graduating this year. Sonya is an example of someone who finds their lifetime sport at Salem.

In 1801, the elders decided that the afternoon "should no longer be used entirely for sewing... and other feminine work," and added "the equally necessary subjects of geography... biblical history, and singing."

Salem's curriculum has expanded to include programs in pre-law and pre-med, International Relations, Communications, and Arts Management.

The traditional areas of English, History, Math, and the natural sciences still enjoy much popularity, although the content of many courses has grown and evolved since they were first established! Salem's faculty represent a broad range of experiences and interests. Today they are much more like friends to their students, joining in student activities and helping us grow as well as learn.

THE WORLD

Lablings, Beta Beta Beta, and Model United Nations sought to further our understanding of the world, whether in the lab or on the Security Council!

Lablings provided opportunities for research and field trips and sponsored lectures. Tri-Beta, the biological honor society, sponsored speakers to promote scientific knowledge.

"Phi Alpha Theta, as a national history honor society, allows students with a genuine interest in the past to come together in an atmosphere appreciative of academic excellence. The importance of historical studies should not be underestimated, especially in today's world- even if you are a biology major like me!" - Karen Elsey, '91

IN RECOGNITION OF ACHIEVEMENT

Several honor societies recognize student excellence in particular areas of interest.

Phi Alpha Theta members have completed four history courses with superior grades, while maintaining high achievement in other subjects.

Pi Gamma Mu is an international social science honor society for juniors and seniors.

Alpha Psi Omega honors those who have dedicated their time and talent to Salem theater.

EXPERIMENTING WITH LIFE

As hard as it is to explain "Jan" Term, this mini-semester of experimental classes, internships, and travel programs is a tried-n-true favorite among Salem students.

Classes on such topics as Humor, Dogs, and Mysticism kept us busy during most of the day, and activities provided by clubs and dorms livened up the evenings and week-ends.

The campus was brought together by the United States' declaration of war, as students joined the faculty for a peace vigil.

Jan Term: a time for unrestrained learning, unlimited fun, and, this year, gatherings in the name of peace... it is an experiment that keeps on working.

This is better than Saturday morning cartoons! Dr. Ersoff and class laugh at Dr. Meehan's antics in their humor class.

Supporting our troops... Students raise banners as the U.S. hurtles toward war against Iraq.

Bestiality? Did someone say bestiality? Dr. Meehan instructs his class on comedy with fitting dignity.

Get that obnoxious thing out of my face! Betsy's project for her "Making Movies" class did little to raise her standing in the polls.

Empty than usual... The Refectory seems deserted as students take advantage of the relaxed schedule and head out for road trips!

Another male visits for Jan Term... Tomo came from Iowa to attend one of our experimental courses.

"My Jan Term internship at Merrill Lynch Brokerage Firm allowed me to experience first-hand how the market fluctuates in response to war and the media's coverage of the Iraq conflict. It was an exemplary month to be there, since we are in a recession and the FED just lowered interest rates. I made valuable business contacts and learned a great deal which will help me as I begin to define my future career goals."

Some students left Salem's grounds for internships and for travel programs.

Salemites worked in banks, hospitals, research labs, schools, and other areas to gain experience in their fields of interest. These students established valuable contacts, as internships often turn into permanent jobs.

Several groups packed their suitcases and headed abroad: one tour, led by Dr. Borwick and Mrs. Jacobowsky, showed students the artistic highlights of London; another bunch went on a "walk-about" in Australia with native Aussie Dr. Baker as their guide.

BOOKS

Whether looking for a book in the library or searching thru a textbook for an answer, our lives seem to revolve around books.

The Textbook Committee served as a liaison between students and the textbook store by handling problems and providing a forum for students' concerns.

The Library Committee ensured that the library met the Salem community's needs.

The Academic Council considered academic policy and suggested changes in the curriculum. It also prepared an agenda for the faculty's monthly meetings.

Academic Council: Seated: Mrs. Mueller, Dean Lister-Sink, Dean Allen, Mr. Bourquin, Ms. Harrell; standing: Steffan, Dr. Rushing, Melanie, Dr. Byers, Dr. McKnight, Susanne, Dr. Meehan, and Dean Farris.

SETTING THE STANDARD

The Marshalls are the juniors holding the highest academic standing. They assist at assemblies, concerts, and graduation.

The Curriculum Committee sends suggestions for curriculum changes to the faculty. This committee ensures that students are provided with a curriculum which is challenging.

THE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

While many students partied and played, music students spent their evenings practicing and doing homework to keep up with their demanding degree requirements. The long hours and stress paid off when students showed off their talents during their recitals.

Lead by Dean Lister-Sink, the faculty included professors that have performed worldwide and have distinguished themselves in the field of music.

"What is glycolysis?" "Do you know all the formulas for the physics test?" "What lab do you have today?"

Despite many late hours (often feeling as if they lived in the Science Building!), and sometimes mind-boggling concepts, Science students buckled down and got the work done in the end.

Whether studying for a major exam or catching up on the latest lab, students found themselves immersed in large quantities of information which usually, if luck was with them, began to make sense at the end of an all-nighter.

For some, a Science class fulfilled a Basic Distribution

Requirement; however, Science majors found that the departments share a standard of excellence which prepares students for even the most demanding graduate programs. They continued to build a firm foundation on which they could go on to careers in medicine, teaching, or research.

Classical and Modern Foreign LANGUAGES

The study of a foreign language gives us the opportunity learn about other lands and cultures, about history and literature. It allows us to communicate with people from other countries. It also makes it possible to confuse your friends by addressing them in a foreign tongue.

French, German, Spanish, and Latin became for students a source of interest, delight, and sometimes - anguish. However you say it, the departments of Classical and Modern Foreign Languages speak for themselves.

HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

From a study of the present to the traditions of the past, the History and Political Science Department sought to bring our world's achievements and failures into perspective. The politically-minded members of campus sharpened their critical thinking skills on such topics as Governments of Europe and the American Constitution, while history buffs reviewed the eras and the leaders which made them great.

ENGLISH AND COMMUNICATIONS

In 1797, the primary purpose of the English "department" was to teach the language to its students, for many spoke German as their native language. Today, the emphasis lies in the development of written expression and in an understanding of our culture's literature.

The Communications Department offers Salem's newest and most popular major.

ART AND ARTS MANAGEMENT

The Art and Arts Management Departments have changed much since the founding of Salem. In the past, the art courses available to students consisted of Embroidery, Sewing, and Painting.

Today, the Art major and the Arts Management major are two very popular degree choices for students. The Art Department provides a broad background in Art History, studio art, and interior design for its majors. The Arts Management Department has designed an extensive program which combines liberal arts study in history, the Arts, Management, and Organizational Behavior.

THE SOCIAL SCIENCES

"What is the true meaning of life?" In the early 4th century B.C. the Greeks began asking such questions, leading them to develop disciplines to give them answers.

Women at Salem have explored the Greeks' questions by pondering the teachings of Plato and the parables of Christ, by analyzing the theories of Freud and Jung, and by looking at the relationships between individuals and groups.

CHANGES IN ADMINISTRA- TION

Although a year of adjustment with the arrival of a new dean and the resignation of our president, 1990-91 brought the administration, faculty, students, and alumnae closer together in alliance for the good of our beloved Salem. Dean Allen brought a breath of fresh air to the campus; conversely, we prepared to say farewell to Dr. Litzenburg after an eight year tenure.

Alumnae Library Admissions

Finders - Keepers?

What did these staff members have in common? Well, they helped us find what we needed.

The Alumnae Office kept up with graduates and coorminated their efforts to support Salem during our period of change. The library staff led us to resources, particularly as we ventured by the shelves of new books. Admissions recruited students to enrich Salem's family; and their inspiring video served to reinforce for each of us why we chose Salem.

Gathering up leaves is a big job! A groundskeeper vacuums up all those October signs of fall.

Calls for escorts from the Pit and the computer lab to the dorms keep Paula and Homer of Public Safety busy all night long.

In 1890, picture-taking was a serious endeavor, and Salem women were always poised.

Nowadays, you'll find Salem women ready to smile for the cameras, wherever we are, whatever we're doing.

We're sometimes goofy, sometimes serious. We're uptight, laid back, zoned out, and often, walking dead. But where there's a flash, there's a mug just waiting to be shot.

Even in our mug shots we show our individuality: a bow here, a bolo there... We are unique, we are infamous, we are

Salem Women

"You don't bring me flowers..." Gwen and Sarah croon in the Refectory.

Jolly Juniors... Jill and Melanie are ready for the fun to begin!

Are you sitting on my car? Sophomores in Raleigh are enjoying a late summer party.

Gotcha! Seniors Christy and Paige manage a quick flash of pearly whites.

DO YOU REMEMBER . . .

FRESHMAN YEAR AND FALL FEST?

Supercalifreshmenistic
Expealidotious! We had no idea what Fall Fest was all about, and the upperclassmen were not giving any information or helpful hints. Mary Poppins led us through the big day, and in the end we finished last.

Number one then... and number one now.

*These Freshmen started at the bottom...
but they have worked their way to the top.*

Sophomore class finally gets their act together... and makes the Senior Emmys a success.

SOPHOMORE YEAR AND SOPH/SR?

Sophomore-Senior is a night of celebration. It is a time to wish the Seniors good luck and let them reminisce about their four years at Salem. The theme for '89 was "Senior Emmys."

A month of late-night planning paid off on the evening of March 2.
Thanks to Paige Parker and Libby
Brown, the Senior Emmys went off with a pop.

Two things you never see at Salem - Cher and Wake guys.

JUNIOR YEAR AND BIG SISTER / LITTLE SISTER?

A little sister is someone to share your highs, lows, and love for Salem. The exchanging of special gifts and special memories will last forever.

Big sisters...Camille and Heather enjoy spending time with their little sisters.

The last run as roomies... Denise and Paige before Opening Convocation.

Lasting friendships... Friends share memories and smiles before Opening Convocation.

SENIOR YEAR AND OPENING CONVOCATION?

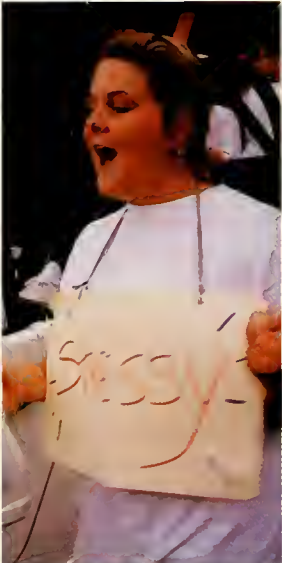

Many thoughts went through our minds that night. We thought about where the years have gone and that our class should not be wearing the caps and gowns. We thought about graduation. The jitters turned to anticipation as we realized that it was our turn, to go out on our own. The Class of 1991: baby, we've come a long way!

No way...are Susie and Holly going to hide these beautiful bodies under ugly gowns.

"Sisters"...forever.

The tradition of wearing caps and gowns began here at Salem with the class of 1891.

The tradition continued with the class of 1911

Members of the Business Club of 1928, briefcases in hand, showed themselves ready for what had always been considered the Man's World.

Salem's students today are no less determined and all the more prepared. The perfect balance of Liberal Arts and pre-professional programs, single sisterhood, and rewarding extracurricular activities has made each of us strong, proud, and ready for everything the world has to offer.

Armed with briefcases, paintbrushes, lessonbooks, microscopes, we find that Salem College gives us

MORE TIME FOR DISCOVERY

Closing

Inputting for maximum output... Joanne taps away in the computer lab..

The little things in life... Hanaan and Leslie take a closer look through the microscope.

Arm in arm... Banner, Juliet, and Tracy climb the familiar path, together.

WHEN IT PAYS TO IMPROVE...

SOCIAL POLICIES:

In response to surveys showing that 94% of our student body supported some form of overnight visitation, the Board of Trustees voted in favor of 24-hour visitation during three major dance weekends.

STUDENT/FACULTY RELATIONS:

Mid-week breaks on Wednesday afternoons allowed faculty and students to gather informally over refreshments. The back porch of Main Hall became a popular place as word spread about the goodies and good company one could find there.

MEAL SCHEDULES:

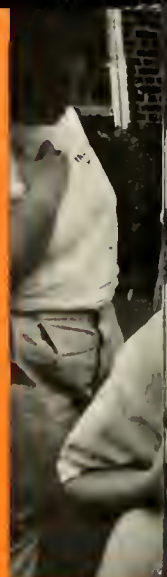

An end to bi-weekly sit-down dinners allowed students more flexibility in scheduling meals around night classes... or was it scheduling night classes around meals? Either way, the Food Committee's efforts to represent our interests in their meetings with Epicure were very much appreciated.

PRE-PROFESSIONAL PROGRAMS:

The revival of the Women's Business Forum and the second year of the Mentor Program gave students the opportunity to look beyond graduation and into their future in the Real World - whether they liked it or not!

STUDENT GOVERNMENT:

1991's SGA Executive Board proved to be one of the most accessible and cohesive groups yet. With all of the other changes the campus was experiencing, our leaders certainly had many issues to address.

Hall Advisors mugging... Allison and Anita aren't too stressed-out by their jobs to smile for our camera.

Just another Bubblehead? No! Laura uses her energy to expand CAC as well as to chew gum.

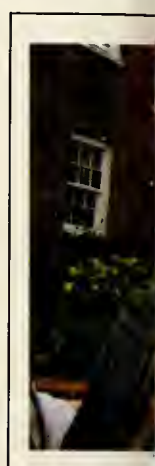

Learning to fly... Jill shows she can use more than her voice to uplift people.

Twist-n-shout... Christie and Melissa spin around during the Rock-n-Roll Extravaganza.

VOGUE! Besty doesn't just strike a pose: she proves her strength!

"We possess what other women only dream of . . ."

Mindy - I just want you to know how much you mean to me. We've been through it ALL together and I wouldn't trade one memory. God truly blessed me when He gave me you for a sister. I wish you the very best in the years to come and I pray that our friendship and love will only continue to grow. Thanks for being the person that you are and for helping me become who I am. I love you,

Mary

HELLOS AND GOODBYES...

We'd like to welcome Salem's Interim President, Dr. Herman Collier. Since his arrival, he has been a visible - and friendly - face on campus. Coming in under demanding circumstances, he rolled up his sleeves and dug into the challenges with enthusiasm. Dr. Collier, we know that Salem will be better because of your time here, and we thank you for your dedication.

We'd also like to give our best wishes to our dear Dean Johnson, who retires from her position as Dean of Students after 23 years. Salem saw many changes under D.J.'s watchful eye and is surely the better for them! Her love for Salem and its women has been strong and unwavering, and she will be missed. Good luck, D.J.! We're behind you all the way!

THANKS FOR ALL YOU'VE DONE FOR SALEM!

HERE'S TO YOU, SALEM COLLEGE! YOU'VE COME A LONG WAY - SO HAS SIGHTS AND INSIGHTS!

When we started this book, we had certain goals in mind: we wanted to represent the entire student body, and do this on time and within our budget - and we did! We hope you enjoy the book, both now and in the years to come.

Our thanks go out to every staff member. Special thanks go to the editors: Susie, Student Life, for flying by the seat of her pants; Becca, Clubs, for managing a large staff under trying circumstances; Jennifer, Sports, for being organized beyond belief; Joanne, Academics, for doing a new section on her own; Denise, People, for setting high standards and living up to them; Heidi, Photography, for always being on call; and Tara, Copy, for all those late nights. To Becky, our Advisor, for all her support and the party!;

Susan for helping us with our history; Anne, Chair of Pub Board for her financial support.

And especially to our roommates, Froggie and Denephew, who have put up with us: thanks a bunch!

It has been a hard year, but it has been well worth it!

Karen and Paige
